To Whom It May Concern,

This is to certify that the Sudanese American Relief and Development Center (SARC) has been collaborating with SOGYA, a US-based humanitarian organization dedicated not only to improving access to safe drinking water in Sudan through groundwater development, water system rehabilitation, and community water-management initiatives, but also to providing a broad spectrum of humanitarian services to displaced and vulnerable populations

,In addition to its water-focused interventions, SOGYA carries out medical assistance food services, emergency shelters, and various forms of direct support to internally displaced people (IDPs) and crisis-affected communities across Sudan. These complementary activities reflect SOGYA's holistic approach to humanitarian relief ensuring that communities receive comprehensive, life-saving assistance during times of hardship

,Over the past years, SARC has worked closely with SOGYA in the areas of fundraising resource mobilization, technical cooperation, and the sharing of knowledge and practical field experience. This collaboration has significantly strengthened SOGYA's ability to implement both water-related projects and wider humanitarian programs in Sudan, while also deepening engagement with local institutions and communities

,SOGYA highly values this partnership with SARC and acknowledges its commitment professionalism, and meaningful contributions to humanitarian and development efforts in Sudan
